

NMP11032 East and West (online)

Module type	Option (The Middle East in a Global Context)
Term / hours	Hilary / 22
ECTS	10
Coordinator(s)	Prof Anne Fitzpatrick ( FITZPAA@tcd.ie )
Lecturer(s)	Prof Anne Fitzpatrick  Dr Murat Şiviloğlu  Dr Mohamed Ahmed  Dr Maya Petrovich  Dr Idriss Jebari
Delivery	Online only

Module description

This module surveys the interconnecting histories of Europe, America and the Middle East and North Africa from the nineteenth century to the present day. It is designed to provide a nuanced historical understanding of the political, intellectual and cultural changes that have taken place in the area since Napoleon's invasion of Egypt. The module is divided into two interrelated parts. First it analyses the European encroachment and how this experience has shaped the Middle East and North Africa as we understand them today. The effect of the Western expansion upon socio-cultural development of the region is examined through a variety of materials: historical documents, essays, travelogues, literature and film. In the second part, the focus shifts to the rising interest of the US in the Middle East and North Africa since the end of the Cold War. The military, economic, and political power that the US exercises in the area is unprecedented. Yet sixty years ago, America's might was irrelevant for the people of the region. What happened? What made the Middle East a priority for the US politics? How has American involvement in the region developed over time? What forces, influences, and interests shape American and European foreign policy toward the Middle East and North Africa today?

Assessment

The module is assessed through a 4,000-word essay.

Indicative bibliography

Adelson, R. (1995). London and the Invention of the Middle East: Money, Power and War, 1902-1922. Yale University Press.

Baron, Beth. The Women's Awakening in Egypt: Culture, Society, and the Press. New Haven: Yale University Press, 1994.

Campos, Michelle U., Ottoman Brothers: Muslims, Christians, and Jews in Twentieth-Century Palestine. Stanford: Stanford University Press, 2011.

Chatty, Dawn, Displacement and Dispossession in the Modern Middle East. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2010.

Ehteshami, A., & Mahjoob, Z., Iran's Foreign Policy: From Khatami to Ahmadinejad. Reading: Ithaca Press, 2008.

Fromkin, D., A Peace to End All Peace; the Fall of the Ottoman Empire and the Creation of the Modern Middle East. New York: Avon Books, 1989.

Guazzone, L., & Pioppi, D., The Arab State and neo-liberal Globalization: the restructuring of the state in the Middle East. Reading: Ithaca Press, 2009.

Owen, R., The Middle East in the World Economy, 1800-1914. London and New York: Meuthen, 1981.

Roberson, B. A., ed., The Middle East and Europe: the Power Deficit. London and New York: Routledge, 1998.

Spiro, D. E., The Hidden Hand of American Hegemony: Petrodollar Recycling and International Markets. Ithaca and London: Cornell University Press, 1999.

Zorob, A., Trade Liberalization and Adjustment via Regional Integration: The Syrian-European Association Agreement. Syria and the Euro-Mediterranean Relationship. St. Andrews Papers on Contemporary Syria, Boulder, CO: Lynne Rienner Publications, 2008.

Learning outcomes

Upon successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- LO1 Critically analyse European encroachments in the Middle East and North Africa.
- LO2 Explain how this experience of encroachment has shaped the Middle East and North Africa today.
- LO3 Identify and explain the importance of the cultural and political structures that have created current realities and conflict in the Middle East and North Africa.
- LO4 Explain and critically explore the effect of the Western expansion upon socio-cultural development of the region through a variety of materials: historical documents, essays, travelogues, literature, and film.
- LO5 Interrogate the interest of the US in the Middle East and North Africa since the end of the Cold War.

- LO6 Critically assess the military, economic, and political power that the US exercises in various regions.
- LO7 Debate and analyse the conditions and circumstances that made the Middle East and North Africa a priority for US politics.
- LO8 Outline how American involvement in the region developed over time.
- LO9 Investigate and interrogate the forces, influences, and interests that shape American and European foreign policy toward the Middle East and North Africa today.