CASE

The judges of this case were faced with addressing the issues that negatively impact the student learning experience.

THIS COURT SUGGESTS:

- A greater focus on interactive learning, catering to the range needs of students with diverse learning needs.
- 2. Teaching practice and content that inclusively reflects the diverse social backgrounds of students as much as possible.
- 3. Maintaining the accessibility advantages of online learning post-lockdown.
- Creating an environment of earnest student-staff interaction, creating safe spaces to address the concerns and needs of every learner.
- 5. A shared sense of care for student morale and mental health, with higher consideration of student needs through greater avenues for communication and feedback.
