

Genre: An Introduction to Literary Studies (MT 2024)

Lecturers: Julie Bates, Stephen O'Neill, Tom Walker

Module Description:

This module examines the concept of genre in order to introduce some of the key structures, themes, reading skills and critical perspectives that underpin English literary studies. We will focus on three major literary genres – poetry, drama and prose fiction – and discuss the ways in which these have evolved from the classical through to the contemporary eras. The module lecturers will explore a range of set texts to illustrate particular formal, stylistic and thematic qualities, and to consider the relationship between literary genre and various social, historical and cultural contexts. The module will also introduce some important critics and theorists of genre and reflect on the role of criticism in the formation of literary canons and traditions.

Learning Outcomes:

On completion of this module students will:

- Understand the evolution of literary genre in its major forms from the classical to the contemporary era
- Be able to locate specific literary genres in historical and cultural context
- Develop awareness of the critical frameworks and categories relevant to the study of literary genre
- Acquire a critical vocabulary relevant to the discussion of literary genre and related concepts
- Gain interpretative skills in reading a selection of illustrative texts from different periods in literary history.

Assessment: Midterm writing assignment, worth 30%, end of term 2-hour exam worth 70%.
